The Division of Outdoor Recreation meets outdoor recreation needs in Indiana through quality services and programs. One service, the Indiana Trails Inventory, lists over 1000 miles of trails that provide a wide variety of experiences, from short paved urban walks to 50-mile rugged backwoods hikes. The inventory lists trail locations and contacts for more information and can be accessed online at: www.IN.gov/dnr/outdoor/trails/. Trails that are included in this database are managed by federal, state, county, city and private organizations.

The Division of Outdoor Recreation manages the Knobstone Trail, Indiana's longest footpath. The 58-mile trail follows the Knobstone Escarpment, the state's most prominent geologic feature, through Clark State Forest, Elk Creek Public Fishing Area, and Jackson-Washington State Forest. These state resource properties contain nearly 40,000 acres of rugged, forested knobs in Clark, Scott, and Washington counties. Two loop trails, one six miles and the other eight miles, have been developed at the northern end of the Knobstone Trail. Eight trailheads provide parking and access to the trail. Backpack camping is permitted in the two Backcountry Areas the trail crosses, as well as along the rest of the trail within certain guidelines. Campgrounds are available near each end of the trail. It is advisable to wear blaze orange clothing when hiking the trail during hunting season.

Over 200 miles of snowmobile trails in Northern Indiana are provided through cooperation of the Division of Outdoor Recreation, local snowmobile clubs, and the Indiana Snowmobile Association. The snowmobile trails are open from December 1st until March 31st when snow conditions are ad-equated and the trails are posted as "open." To find out if trails are open and trail conditions call the Indiana Snowmobile Association 24 hour hotline at 574-679-4006. Trail status is available after the first significant snowfall during the snowmobile season and is updated as conditions change. There are trailheads at each of the five trails for parking vehicles and trailers. Only registered snowmobiles may be used on the trails.

INDIANA GINSENG PROGRAM

The purpose of Indiana's ginseng program is to insure a healthy population for the future. Harvest Season: September 1 thru December 31. It is illegal to harvest out of season. Harvesters do not need a license to dig, or sell to a licensed Dealer. It is illegal to harvest ginseng on State property. The plant must have 3 or 4 prongs, or 4 internodes on the rhizome (USFWS requires 5 internodes) to be legally harvested. The seeds must be planted at the harvest site.

For more information contact:
Division of Nature Preserves or visit:

GYPSY MOTH ALERT

The gypsy moth is a destructive insect pest of hardwood forests and urban landscapes in the United States. There are four developmental life stages of gypsy moth: the egg, larva, pupa and adult. The larva of this insect, called a caterpillar, eats the foliage of approximately 500 host plants, but prefers oak, apple, willow and, to a lesser extent, hickory and maple. The larvae are only present in the spring and though they produce silk, they do not build tents.

Gypsy moths are not native to the United States. They were accidentally introduced from Europe to Medford, Massachusetts in 1869 and have spread steadily westward. Natural spread occurs when caterpillars spin a silken strand and are windblown out of infested areas. Gypsy moths are spread long distances when people, unknowingly, carry life stages from infested areas to non-infested areas. Indiana is detecting large numbers of moths and isolated infestation in northern Indiana. You can help prevent the spread of gypsy moth. Learn to identify gypsy moth life stages if found. For information visit our website.

Quarantined counties listed as of December 2001 include: Allen, Dekalb, Elkhart, LaGrange, Noble, Porter and Steuben. It is important to check campers, trailers, and vehicles for gypsy moth life stages from May through August, especially if you are planning to visit another state park or property, outside the quarantined areas.

TICK TIPS

Several different kinds of ticks live in Indiana. Only a few are of special concern because of the diseases they may transmit.

In order to reduce your exposure to tick bites use these simple tips:

- Wear light-colored, long-sleeved shirts or blouses and trousers when hiking in areas with suspected tick populations.
- Tuck the pant legs of your trousers into your socks.
- Use approved tick repellents on your clothing. Always follow label directions for any repellent.
- Check your outer clothing and scalp as well as the clothing and scalps of those with you for ticks prior to entering your vehicle or entering your home after a hike. Be sure to check pets for ticks before letting your pet into a house or car.
- Remove attached ticks when they are discovered by firmly grabbing the tick's head as close to the skin as possible with a pair of tweezers or with your fingers covered by a tissue. Pull the tick straight backwards, without bending or twisting the tick's body. Never apply flammable products or other household chemicals to an attached tick. Seek medical assistance if necessary.
- Record the date of a tick bite on a calendar. If you develop fevers, rashes, or flu-like symptoms contact your family physician and inform them of the tick bite. Schedule an appointment.
- On many state properties the property manager or a naturalist may be able to advise you of any sections of a property with especially strong tick populations.

24 FISH & WILDLIFE AREAS

Indiana's fish and wildlife areas are designed as multiple-use properties and offer a wide range of outdoor recreational activities. A variety of wildlife habitats (forests, grasslands and wetlands) are also maintained on these areas that support both game and non-game wildlife. Although providing fishing and hunting opportunities is the primary purpose of these areas, all visitors are welcome.

INTERPRETIVE SERVICES: EVERYONE BENEFITS!

Each time you visit one of our park or reservoir properties, you benefit from the skills and enthusiasm of our interpreters.

Interpretive naturalists provide programs that have been a source of pride for the Indiana Department of Natural Resources since 1923. These professionals don't translate a foreign language; their job is to introduce you to the fascinating stories of each property you visit. They can take you on a hike through the woods, point out constellations in the night sky, explain why leaves change color and answer your questions about poisonous snakes. They are naturalists, botanists, zoologists, geologists, astronomers, historians and recreation enthusiasts. With live animals, slide shows, guided tours, crafts, games and stories, interpretive naturalists provide fun and educational experiences that can enhance your visit and make memories with your family that last a lifetime.

They keep the bulletin boards up-to-date so you have accurate information about the property and make connections with local Convention and Visitors' Bureaus to help you find and enjoy attractions and services in communities near our properties. They edit text and trail information on those vital property maps and brochures you use. They help prepare gate attendants and other front-line staff to answer the common questions you ask about the history, plants and animals of the property.

INTERPRETIVE CENTERS OPEN DOORS TO OUR PROPERTIES

Our interpretive centers (nature centers and cultural sites) allow you to discover the unique features of each property at your own pace through hands-on exhibits, living history and staff/guest demonstrations. Historic buildings and artifacts, comfortable chairs for viewing wildlife and knowledgeable staff and volunteers make our centers a must-see experience.

Consider Making a Gift for the Future . . .

Support the Interpretive Services with your gift of time, money or materials.

- Financial Contributions/Donations. You can contribute to the support of the Interpretive Services, either division-wide or at an individual property. Contributions should be directed to the Interpretive Services, care of the Chief Interpreter, Division of State Parks and Reservoirs, 402 W. Washington, Room W298, Indianapolis, IN 46204. Designate your favorite property if appropriate. Contributions are tax deductible and acknowledgement can be provided if requested.
- Materials. Each full time interpreter maintains a "wish list" of supplies that are needed for programs and exhibits. These supplies may range from birdseed to laptop computers! Check with your favorite property to see how you can help!
- Volunteers. There are many opportunities for helping out at our interpretive centers. We welcome individuals who can work regularly as center hosts/greeters, animal caregivers (cleaning/feeding), field volunteers completing resource inventory/identification or technicians in computer data entry.

INDIANA STATE PARKS and RESERVOIRS

Touring Ride In Rural Indiana®

June 20-26, 2004, the Indiana State Parks & Reservoirs Touring Ride In Rural Indiana®, presents bicycle touring at its best as the Bloomington Bicycle Club and the Indiana State Parks & Reservoirs join forces to host bicyclists on a tour through historic and scenic southeast Indiana.

Starting in Columbus, IN, and heading counterclockwise, we'll visit Brown County State Park, Spring Mill State Park (for two nights), Clifty Falls State Park (two nights), and Versailles State Park. Along the way, we'll ride through the small towns and varied countryside that make up rural Indiana, along the Ohio River, and through the uplands and down into the karst area of southern Indiana, site of the Lost River. On the two layover days participants can explore the parks, enjoy nearby sight-seeing, or take a choice of bicycle tours of the areas.

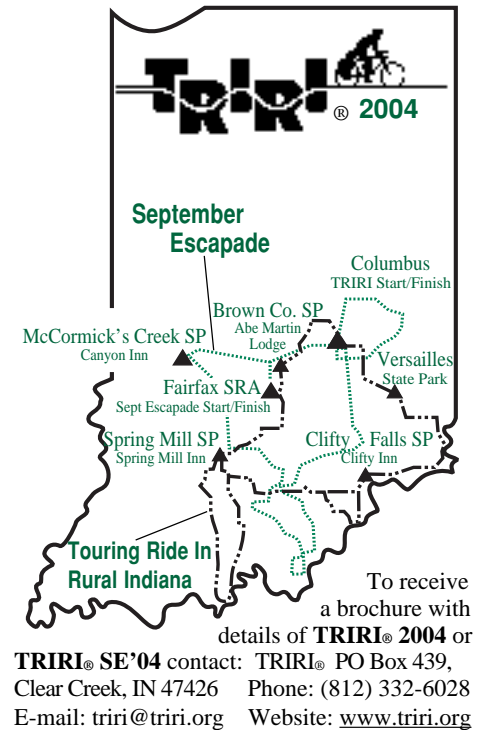

Bicycles (and bicycle riders) of all shapes, sizes and ages are invited to join in this adventure. Twelve catered meals (breakfast and dinners) at the TRIRI® campsites are included in the fee, as are entertainment, a special T-shirt to commemorate the event, a carefully planned course, camping sites, SAG services, baggage transportation, a TRIRI® Diary and the availability of bicycle repair and massage therapy.

September 12-17, 2004, the September Escapade TRIRI® presents a tour of south central Indiana, an area that bicyclists have come from all over the country to enjoy. The Bloomington Bicycle Club, the Indiana State Park Inns and the Indiana State Park & Reservoirs work together to make this a memorable vacation in which every night is spent in either a state park inn or campsite, and every day is spent experiencing the bicycle tourism at its best.

These bicyclists will visit Spring Mill State Park for two nights, Brown County State Park for two nights, and McCormick's Creek State Park for the last night. Over half of the participants will be able to take advantage of the inn option for their overnights. Layover days at each site will offer bicycle loop tours, special sight-seeing opportunities and state park adventures. Spring Mill Inn, Abe Martin Lodge, and Canyon Inn will host the plentiful breakfast and dinner buffets.

Ten meals (breakfasts and dinners) at state park inns are included in the fee, as are park entry and camping fees, maps and the availability of bicycle repair and massage therapy.

THE MUSEUM AT PROPHETSTOWN

"SEE . . . EXPLORE . . . DISCOVER . . ."

Preserving Native American, Agricultural and Environmental Heritage!

Located along Interstate 65, just four miles from Greater Lafayette, Indiana, The Museum at Prophetstown provides the opportunity for future generations to participate in making the past come alive. There are a number of special events planned for 2004. Visit the website at www.prophetstown.org and go to the Calendar page for details.

WABASH VALLEY LIVING HISTORY FARM

The 1920's marked agriculture's mechanical revolution. The Living History Farm recreates the life on a family farm in Tippecanoe County during this period. Guided tours show visitors through the 1920's Farmhouse and provide a glimpse of life on the farm as it used to be.

WOODLAND NATIVE AMERICAN VILLAGE

The council house is the largest and most inspiring of the structures found at the village site today. Other structures include wigwams and a cooking shelter. The village also includes a chief's house and a medicine lodge.

PRAIRIE ENVIRONMENTAL COMPLEX

Prior to 1998, most of the land around the museum campus was soybean fields. Today, it is a thriving prairie filled with a variety of grasses and native wildflowers. This unique area provides the opportunity to see, hear, and feel the grasses, flowers, songbirds and mammals that have inhabited Indiana for thousands of years.

FACILITY RENTAL

The 1920's Farmhouse and the Barn are available for parties, receptions, meetings, and retreats. Call us to plan your next event.

FARMHOUSE SUPPERS, SCHOOL TOURS

The Museum at Prophetstown offers a variety of ways for the public to experience their heritage. Farmhouse Suppers are served family style in the 1920's Farmhouse for groups of eight or more and includes a horse-drawn trolley ride. Guided tours of the Museum are available for schools, community organizations, and other groups. Call for reservations and additional information.

Enjoy a family cabin with your loved ones in an Indiana State Park this year. The cabins offer privacy and comfort with bedrooms, living areas, kitchens and modern bathroom facilities.

Choose from modern cabins at Brown County, Chain O'Lakes, Harmonie, Lincoln, McCormick's Creek, Potato Creek, Shakamak, or Whitewater Memorial state parks. The capacities of the cabins range from four to eight depending on location (see chart below).

Cabins are very popular, so reserve early! Brown County's Abe Martin Lodge accepts reservations for their cabins up to two years in advance. All other parks accept reservations up to one year in advance.

Reservations may be made by telephone or online. With the exception of Brown County, cabins must be reserved for either one or two weeks during June, July and August and for a minimum of Friday and Saturday nights all other months. Cabins at Brown County require a minimum of two nights' reservation on weekends year-round. Minimum reservation periods in winter vary at the other parks. Additional minimum requirements also apply during holidays.

Be sure to indicate preference for smoking or non-smoking cabins.

Brown County, Potato Creek, Shakamak and Whitewater Memorial state park cabins operate all year. Cabins at Chain O'Lakes, Harmonie, Lincoln, and McCormick's Creek state parks close in the winter.

♿ Harmonie and Whitewater Memorial each have two cabins with full accessibility to the physically disabled. Brown County, Potato Creek and Chain O'Lakes also have some cabins with a lesser degree of accessibility.

Please do not bring your pets as they are not allowed in or around the family cabins.
